Rice-mad Myanmar eyes diversification of crops

Global Time : 05 May 2019

Myanmar is a nation obsessed with rice. Its people eat an average of 155 kilograms a year, according to a 2016 survey by the country's rice federation and Yezin Agricultural University, ensuring Myanmar has one of the world's highest rates of rice consumption. For half a century, successive leaders anchored agriculture policies on rice. The government used loans, infrastructure, and services to push farmers to grow it and people to eat it, so rice is now woven into the fabric of daily life. Read more...

VN looks to export more rice to China

Vietnam News : 07 May 2019

Việt Nam was looking for measures to expand rice exports to China after witnessing a fall in export volume to the market since 2018. Đỗ Hà Nam, deputy chairman of the Việt Nam Food Association, said at a conference about rice trade between Việt Nam and China in HCM City on Monday that Vietnamese exporters were struggling to access the Chinese market despite China's massive demand for rice. ### Thailand aims to export 10m tons of Thai rice in 2019

Cambodia Daily : 07 June 2019

The Ministry of Commerce has maintained its rice export forecast because it believes that the trade war between the United States and China does not affect the demand for rice and the El Nio phenomenon that affects many countries is likely to increase Thai rice prices. From discussions with farmers, it was found that farmers are satisfied with rice prices. Every government has placed importance on rice because it is the main agricultural product of the country and Thailand has about four million rice farming households. Read more...

Somdach Hun Sen urges rice farmers to quit chemicals

Khmer Time : 07 June 2019

"Cambodia differentiates itself by not using chemical fertilizers and pesticides. There is strong demand for milled rice without chemicals," Mr Hun Sen said.

The premier urged farmers to use natural fertilizers, arguing that the lack of chemicals in the country's produce is a "strong point". He added that over-reliance on chemical fertilizers and pesticides leads to food safety concerns. Read more...
